

Angus Council

'focus solutions, exceptional results'

"The course was run very well. I was particularly impressed by the professionalism of the trainer".
David Smart, Systems Co-ordinator, Angus Council

"Angus Council wishes to create strong secure communities, an enterprising workforce, and sustainable development over the range of public services for which it has responsibility. It is a customer and citizen focused organisation and works to deliver accessible, effective and efficient services for the county's 108,400 population."

FGI were chosen because of their ability to deliver training courses in Edinburgh and because the timings of the courses suited the organisation. Angus Council were very happy with the quality of the PRINCE2® training course, especially the trainer, and have been very pleased with the service they have received from FGI.

Following a mandate from the Scottish Executive, who provided funding, that PRINCE2 should be adopted by Councils as the standard Project Management Methodology to be used, Angus Council approached FGI to provide their training.

Angus Council is experiencing a huge amount of business process change brought on by the eGovernment agenda. Staff are finding that the PRINCE2 training they have received from FGI has helped them in structuring and managing these projects and they have seen definite benefits from the fact that other departments within the Council are following the same methodology for running projects.

PRINCE2® is a Registered Trademarks of the Office of Government Commerce in the United Kingdom and other countries.
